Council Says No To Taxis, Talks Post War Plans

On the proposition that the streets should be kept for the use of the citizens, the Carmel city council at an adjourned meeting Thursday night denied the requests of both Joe Oliveras and A. B. Gibson for parking spots for their taxis on Dolores and on Sixth Streets.

"I do not believe the space on the streets should be given up for the sole use of any business or company," councilman Bernard Rowntree said in expressing his opinion of the request of the taxi operators.

Oliveras' request for a parking stand for his Carmel Valley Bus on Sixth at Dolores was granted, as were requests of Gibson and John Lucido for assignment of business licenses.

The council passed a resolution employing City Clerk, Peter Mawdsley to act as financial advisor and prepare the annual budget at a salary of $100 in addition to his salary as city clerk following City Attorney Peter Ferranti's report that none of the duties of financial advisor are germane to those of city clerk.

Mawdsley called the attention of the council to a publication issued by the League of California Cities containing a guide to post war planning and requested that the council give it its consideration. Councilman L. L. Dewar stated that he was a member of the Monterey Peninsula Post War Planning Committee and would make a report at the next council meeting on what the Peninsula group had in mind.

The Mayor reported that his efforts to get use of a canyon on the outskirts of town as a dumping place for brush had been unsuccessful but that he would try to find some other location for a city dump.

A second request from Mrs. Lee A. Parker of Alameda for the city to remove two dangerous trees on the corner of Dolores and 4th Streets was read and the city clerk instructed to write her for a release.

Alphabetical Signup For Ration Book 4 Wed., Thurs., Fri.,

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week Carmel housewives will sign up for war ration book number 4 at Sunset School, those in other Peninsula cities and in the rural districts at their nearest elementary school.

The signup will be handled in alphabetical order, persons whose names begin with the letters from A through G applying Wednesday, H through R, Thursday and S through Z, on Friday.

Only one person from each family group need apply, but ration books Number 3 for each member of the family must be presented to the registrar before the new books will be issued. Also, anyone may apply for a friend or relative, but must present his ration book 3.

A. M. Davis is coordinator for the Monterey registrar system with each of the school superintendents acting as school site administrators. He is also in charge of the Monterey signup. C. Surgical Technician Exhibits Costume Designs at All Soldier Show Opening Today at Gallery

By ELEANOR MINTON JAMES

"I could draw before I could talk," Sergeant Gilbert Wayne Steed volunteered—not by way of boasting; he only takes his mother's word about infant days when his crib was cluttered with colored crayons. His first contact with this bright new world was therefore made through finger tips fumbling for verisimilitude with a crayon rather than by baby patter.

That a Hollywood costume designer is expert surgical technician at Fort Ord's Station Hospital further proves the versatility of the artist temperament.

This young Nova Scotia-born Hollywood illustrator has never stopped drawing, even when he enlisted in 1940. At fifteen he was exhibiting at the Pomona State Fair along side the well known southern California artist, Millard Sheets, a modernistic arrangement of a cocktail shaker in the cubist style. It is included with his costume designs and anatomical illustrations in the Carmel Art Gallery's All Soldier Show opening today.

"Getting into costume design—I worked for the Western Costume Co.—was really accidental. It happened through a friend of mine, Adrian, in Hollywood." Before this he had won a scholarship to study at the Otis School of Art in Los Angeles.

"At Otis I certainly had a sound foundation in structure, proportion, anatomy. More than anything else Otis insists on this. We had to work from bas reliefs and plaster casts. At that school they won't stand for any short cuts to get quick results."

His Otis scholarship was followed by another which meant—or would have meant—Paris and the excitement of continental training. But he forfeited all this. The war broke out. He enlisted and gave up all hope of Paris.

In both costume and anatomical illustrations Sergeant Steed's line work is fascinating. At times there is pleasantly exaggerated Frenchness of flowing line, a heightening of grace and exotic curve. Again, we find oriental liquid line patterning modern lavish color. Incidentally, his awareness of color is no stronger than his sure perception of black and white tonal values. Here there is invariably substance, roundness, sculpture modeling.

Steed's costumes modeled by his imaginary beautiful women and gallant men are three dimensional. Flesh and blood and bone in historical attire are engagingly posed before you, strikingly stylized, wearing gorgeous gowns with regal flair.

Medieval court painters were brought up painting fabric, a very important part of their job. Similarly, Steed shows genuine feeling for material. His satin, fur, (Continued on page 12)

DO YOU KNOW WHERE A TURTLE'S EARS ARE?

We didn't know. Miss Billington didn't know. The other teachers didn't know.

We couldn't find it in books. So we asked Miss Sener at the High School. Miss Sener asked her class to help us. She asked Dr. Heath to be sure they were right.

Now we know where a turtle's ears are. Do you?

New Carmel Law Unjust, Possibly Unconstitutional

By WILMA COOK

Last night the City Council gave final reading to the obscenity ordinance. It is now a Carmel law—a law which classes all books obscene until proven innocent.

Added to the reversal of the American attitude that innocence is assumed until guilt is proven is the injustice of placing on books an impossible condition.

Communications On Obscenity Ordinance

To Our Fellow-Citizens:

We, the undersigned citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea, have noted with concern the recent report of the F. B. I. that "rape has definitely emerged as a wartime crime." The report also tells us that the arrests of girls under 21 years of age increased 55.7 per cent in 1942 over 1941, and 89.5 per cent in the first half of 1943 as compared with the first half of 1942. The figures apply only to "crimes against common decency." The appeal of the F. B. I. for community cooperation in crime-prevention is a timely, urgent and patriotic message.

We therefore commend our city attorney and the members of the City Council who are giving earnest attention to one aspect of crime-prevention, namely, an ordinance against the sale of obscene literature that has been denied 2nd Class mailing privileges by the Federal Postal authorities, and/or that may be brought into the community by other means of transportation.

We believe that it is a proper function of government to provide incentives and opportunities for the moral stability of its people, especially its youth, and to impose restraints upon those who endanger public welfare for private gain. As in the case of most laws, especially those involving moral issues, there is often difference of opinion as to what is legal and what is illegal. Variation of judgment is not uncommon; but in a broad sense the purpose of the law is fulfilled.

It is manifestly the responsibility of all in a position to influence public standards and opinion, (whether State, Church, School, Press or others,) to approach these moral questions with the intelligence and earnestness that their significance demands. As your fellow-citizens, we hope that our community shall maintain a reputation for decent liberty rather than Bohemian license. There need be no Carmel fog on the question, "What is Obscene?"

Respectfully yours,

Rev. Michael D. O'Connell
Rev. Carol Hulsewé
Rev. James E. Crowther.

Editor The Pine Cone:

Will you grant me a few inches of space to present the other side of the subject of "obscene reading matter," recently discussed in your columns? After the proposed ordinance was read in the City Council, the question was asked by several persons, and by The Pine Cone, (Continued on page 4)

According to the new law, prima facie evidence (arresting evidence) of the guilt of a book is the fact that it does not have printed in it that it has been admitted to the United States mails, the customary second class mail privilege notice that you can read in the mast head of the Pine Cone and any of your favorite magazines. Carmel's obscenity ordinance assumes that absence of this notice in a book is proof that the second class mailing privileges have been applied for and denied on grounds of obscenity, a questionable assumption at best since second class mailing privileges are revoked for a number of reasons other than obscenity, such as failure to meet publication date, etc., but in the case of books, doubly (Continued on page 4)

War Chest Drive Starts Monday

"Money subscribed to the Community and War Chest campaign this year will serve a two-fold purpose," Mayor P. A. McCreery, in charge of the Carmel drive for funds said today, in urging residents to give at least double their donation's of last year in order to help fill the Peninsula quota of $64,400.

"First, part of it will go to the character building agencies of the Community Chest, such as Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, and money spent in this direction insures good citizens of tomorrow.

"And, secondly, during this great war-time need, the majority of the funds will go to war-connected agencies. The USO heads this list, and the other agencies listed on the Peninsula's quota are for war relief. These agencies serve to assist citizens of war torn countries where sickness and starvation are rampant. "I cannot stress too strongly the importance of giving this year and I hope and trust that the residents of Carmel will uphold their long record of generosity," Mayor McCreery said.

The formal drive for funds on the Peninsula begins next Monday and a hard-working army of volunteers will conduct a house-to-house canvass. Committees in each of the three cities will contact business houses, as well.

Character building agencies to receive funds, totaling $28,000 for the Community Chest are: Associated Charities, Community Center, Salvation Army, Milk Fund, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

War connected agencies are: USO, U. S. Prisoners Aid, Seamen's Aid, European Children's Aid, AWVS, Russian, Chinese, British, Greek, Polish, French, Jugo-Slav, Belgian, Czechoslovak and Refugee Aid.

Chinn Tells What U. S. Soldiers Eat In South Seas

From the coconut and banana latitude, Carmel's Chinese soldier, William Chinn, writes that his company is eating steak, pork chops and hot cakes. The letter is addressed to Mrs. Willis G. White, who coached him in English before he entered Carmel high school four years ago when he came over from China to join his father, Henry Chinn, the expert chef at the Pine Inn.

William was born in Oakland, but received his education in China as his father took the family to Canton when the children were young. The father returned to the United States in 1932. William was the first of the children to return to America. Raymond, 19, and Alice, 17, left Hong Kong just before it fell. The mother and the two younger children, 12 and 14, after a heartbreaking journey on foot, through enemy territory, arrived at Hong Kong to find there was no more room for them on the last boat out and were forced to return to Canton where their home had been destroyed when the Japs had bombed the city.

Alice is here in Carmel with her father. Raymond left last week for Los Angeles to work in the Boeing airplane factory. William, in active service with the American Army somewhere in the South Pacific writes home with unfailing cheerfulness:

Sept. 7, 1943

Dear Mrs. White:

Your letter was received while I was in the kitchen cooking French fried potatoes for the company. When I opened your letter and found the little clipping from the Pine Cone (a previous letter of his printed in the Pine Cone.—Ed.) it made me feel very happy. I showed the sergeant the clipping. He was so pleased that he put it on the bulletin board so the rest of the boys could read it.

There are quite a few trees here. But the only ones we are allowed to mention in our letters are the orange and lemon trees as they grow wild, also some tangerine trees. They are nothing like our California fruits. They don't taste as sweet; also there are lots of coconuts and bananas that grow here. I think pineapples, too, but so far have not run across any. I have eaten quite a bit of these fruits, but would prefer the fruits of California to the ones here anytime. We also get apples, but they are shipped here from other places. However, they are very delicious, especially the ones that resemble the Newton Pippens from the upper Carmel Valley.

The first few months that we were here we ate mostly dehydrated and canned foods and powdered eggs and milk which we are not very fond of. We used most of the powdered eggs for hot cakes, and that way they were very nice, indeed.

Also we make quite frequently French toast with eggs and milk (powdered) which the boys seem to like quite well. We try our best to give the fellows the things they like best, and they all seem to appreciate our efforts. There is no kicking about the food. They seem to like hot cakes a lot as nearly every morning you can hear them yelling, "hot cakes!"

We get plenty of fresh meat and vegetables, also butter. But of course all that comes from other places. We have delicious beef steaks occasionally, also pork chops and veal cutlets.

Last Sunday, which was yesterday, we had the following items on our menu: for breakfast, hot cakes, sirup, tomato juice, butter and coffee; noon: veal roast, mashed potatoes, string beans, brown gravy, sliced pineapple, iced tea and orange juice; supper: baked ham, sweet potatoes, creamed corn, sweet gravy sauce, sweet pickles, fruit jello, coffee, bread and butter. Our baker makes pies and different kinds of pastry.

Sometimes fellows come from other outfits such as marines, sailors and other branches to eat with us and their eyes pop out when they see how we eat. Some even say, "I've been dreaming of eating this kind of a meal for a long time."

So now do you think I was lucky to get into such an outfit as this?

Of course we would all like to return eventually to the United States and see our friends and folks. But as long as the war continues, I'm very satisfied to stay with this company where I am getting along so well.

The boys in our company are working very hard lately, night and day. But it all helps to pass the time away. We have worked several Sundays. But just as soon as the work slacks up we will get our regular day off, as before. But of course, with the cook, we get our day off. As we work long hours and need to rest a little, and on these days we do our bathing and washing when necessary and that is quite frequent, as you know working in the kitchen dirties a lot of clothes.

Well, Mrs. White, I think I have written you quite a little for this time, so I will close with best wishes to you and any of my friends you may have a chance to meet.

Yours sincerely,
William Chinn.

Adult School

Creative Writing

The class in Creative Writing at the Carmel Adult school held its fifth session this week with its members actively embarked upon an intensive study of their first problem — what makes a short story tick. Later they plan to go exploring in the field of play-writing.

Membership of the class ranges from beginners with an urge toward expression to veterans in the field, with many published works to their credit. Instruction, together with a very lively class discussion, centers about the important matter of arousing—and sustaining reader interest, how to find story plots, how to shape them toward the maximum of suspense, and then how to clothe them with the maximum of human flesh. Active membership in the class entails reading and analysis of accepted stories and step by step practice in using the tools of creative writing, as they emerge from lecture, discussion and the study of examples.

The course is designed as a refresher for those who already know, as a means of dispelling the mystery for the timid beginner, and aims not only toward a greater skill in craftsmanship for writers, but a greater appreciation of the art of literature and therefore a heightened joy for the reader.

Meeting on Mondays between 7:30 and 9:30 in room 3 of Sunset school, the class is offered without charge to those interested and is under the direction of Miss Irene Alexander.—I. A.

A class in Sewing and Crafts began last Monday, October 11, at 3 o'clock in Room 15 at Sunset school. Mrs. J. L. Pasmore is in charge.

Picture Mag. to Cover Barn Door Canteen Show

"Look" cameramen will attend Barn Door Canteen for the Topsy-Turvy show Sunday afternoon, when the Carmel USO celebrates its third anniversary.

Reversing the customary procedure of the Barn Door Canteen, the servicemen will be on the disbursing end, the civilians on the receiving end in one of the most novel programs the Peninsula has seen.

Highlight of the afternoon's program will be a 30-minute broadcast over Radio Station KDON, in which servicemen who are veterans of the screen, stage and radio will take part. The broadcast will originate in the canteen, from 3:30 to 4:00 p.m.

The "Angels' Roost" of the canteen will be taken over by the servicemen. Seven of them will be selected to play the roles of "angels" for the afternoon and they will watch the festivities from choice seats in the "roost" and in angelic halos and capes.

For the civilians who will attend the program it will be their first mass visit of the canteen. For in the many months that it has been open only seven civilians, aside from those who were members of the USO committee, were allowed to enter and only after they had brought two dozen doughnuts apiece for the visiting servicemen. These seven then were designated the "angels" for the evening.

All the entertainers have had long professional experience. For example, Johnny Elizalde, who, despite his 18 years, has played with such top-notch bands as Stan Kenton's orchestra and has played on the National Broadcasting Company chain. Gene Straub, "Prince of the Banjo," has been a vaudeville headliner in the Middle West. Norbert Mueller, violinist, has been a soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. George Miller was a widely known concert (Continued on page 12)

Free Health Service Given to Carmel School Children

A picture of what the Carmel school district is doing to preserve the health of its children was presented in the monthly report of School Nurse Florence Morrow at the school board meeting at the high school Tuesday night.

Since September 13 health activities at the high school included screening examination of all boys on the athletic teams by Dr. James Harvey Clark. Physical examination of all the girls by Dr. St. Claire Lindsley will be completed next week. Notices of defects uncovered in the examination have been sent out to the parents and health histories have been taken among the boys preparatory to a more thorough examination by Dr. Clark which began this week and will continue until all boys have been examined.

At Sunset the emergency file has been completed for the health office, health records made out for several classes and all pupils have been weighed and measured.

Three grades have been inspected by the nurse, a screening taken for the doctor's examinations which are to be made of all children as soon as the examinations are completed at the high school. Sixty-five bottles of milk daily are being served at mid-morning to children that need extra milk, and four children are taking the rest period daily.

Meanwhile Nurse Morrow is seeing mothers at the office who call to discuss their children's routine with her. She has made eight house calls to confer with parents, administered first aid and sent children home who have shown signs of illness at school.

Communications On Ordinance

"What is obscene literature?" That is a permanently controversial subject, even with many who admit that some control is desirable. But there is a convenient and accepted standard which the city attorneys of the three towns of this peninsula have agreed to adopt: the standard set by the U. S. Postal Department, one that for many years has been unchallenged in this country. What is too bad for the privilege of the U. S. Mail is too bad for Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula. It isn't necessary for a local committee to struggle with the question of what magazines shall be banned; along with many others—and much larger cities—in the country, our proposed ordinance accepts that standard wholeheartedly.

It may be true that some malicious person could try to cause the arrest of our efficient librarian for giving out "Little Women," or one of the local ministers for handing out a hymnbook, on the charge of "circulating obscene books," because of its lack of the statement of being "admissible to the United States mail," but what county official would issue a warrant on such flimsy evidence, or rather, lack of evidence? And where could be found a district attorney who would prosecute such a case? It would never get to court.

In order to make the restriction of undersirable reading matter effective, it is necessary to accept a criterion and support the Council loyally in its measures to make a needed improvement.

(Signed)

P.O. NOT GIVING OUT

The radio report originating in San Francisco which advised citizens to call their post office to get zone numbers applies to San Francisco post office and not Carmel. Postmaster Fred Bechdolt announced yesterday.

Carmel people can not get zone numbers for San Francisco or any other out of town city addresses at the Carmel post office, and Mr. Bechdolt wishes they would stop telephoning for them. More to the point, he said, would be their addressing local letters with the correct box number so that the new force would be able to distribute the mail with more accuracy.

Sacramento Likes Ritschel Show at Crocker Gallery

The William Ritschel show at the Edwin Bryant Crocker Gallery in Sacramento closed last week after attracting an exceptionally large attendance.

Harry Noyes Pratt, director-manager of the gallery in his monthly bulletin, Art Gallery Notes, said of the Carmel artist's exhibit: "No finer exhibition of marines has been shown in the west than this; a score of the large paintings of the sea which have given Ritschel his place as one of America's foremost artists. We felt it a privilege to hang this show on our walls."

BOOKS NO MATTER HOW INNOCENT CAN'T GET SECOND CLASS MAILING PRIVILEGES. They do not qualify. Second class mail was established for magazines and newspapers and provides a reduced postage to publishers who meet certain conditions: a regular publication date, a paid subscription list, uniformity of matter. The privilege is denied matter that has been proved in court to be obscene. Applied to newspapers and magazines, the absence of the notice of second class mailing privileges might be taken as prima facie evidence that the privilege has been denied because of obscenity, but to take the absence of notice of second class mailing privileges in books as prima facie evidence that the book is obscene when a book can't get second class mailing privileges because of conditions that are impossible to fulfill, conditions that have nothing to do with obscenity, is nothing short of idiocy.

Had the word, "books" been eliminated from the Carmel law, the ordinance would have had a reasonable chance to stand up in court. As it is, if the police attempt to ban an objectionable magazine whose second class mailing privileges have been denied they are going to find that the attorney for the publishing house of that magazine will make the most of the book anomaly in the ordinance. The likely result: the Carmel ordinance ruled unconstitutional, and a magazine that should have been penalized going free because the city council insists on passing an ordinance with a hole in it can drive a truck through.

We didn't dream this up following a heavy meal before going to bed. We understand that the big magazine publishing chains are fighting obscenity ordinances in court. We know that a California city lost a case and damages were awarded for magazines destroyed.

In the two letters received from citizens we like and respect—the letters are printed on page 1—we find implied criticism of our Philippic on the subject of the book weakness in the ordinance in last week's Pine Cone. We feel that they are laboring under a misunderstanding of our motive. We repeat our statement of last week. We are not taking issue with AN obscenity ordinance. We are complaining that THIS obscenity ordinance is dangerously badly written.

Hefling Getting 2200 Valentines Ready for Mail

City Tax Collector Thomas Hefling was surrounded chin-deep in stamped envelopes yesterday, 2200 of them, and the police department began to groan, because when those 2200 envelopes, stuffed with 1944 tax notices and addressed to Carmel property owners, are sealed and addressed, Collector Hefling will give the sign and it will be up to the police department to furnish a scout car and a husky patrolman to transport them to the post office for mailing.

It is anticipated that the glad-some event will occur about the 20th of this month as the first installment falls due November 1.

Many Prizes For Bundles Tombola

By MRS. R. ELLIS ROBERTS
Owing to the generosity and imagination of Lady Kinnoull, to which has since been added the generosity of many residents of Carmel and Monterey, Bundles for America and Bundles for Britain are able to present a new Halloween entertainment, a Tombola. Over a year ago the Countess of Kinnoull, who has interested herself in Bundles for America and Bundles for Britain, as well as in the Free French Shop, suggested that the two Bundles have a Tombola as a means of raising funds for their good causes, help to our Merchant Marine and to our English allies. She offered to make a charcoal portrait of the winner of one prize and suggested that Bundles ask the hotels for coupons good for a dinner for the winner and a friend, that the theatres be asked for two seats and the shops for prizes. Plans already made for lectures and concerts made the Entertainment Committee of Bundles postpone the Tombola, but they are rather glad of that as Halloween, when witches are abroad, seems the very day to try one's luck at a lottery.

Mayor P. A. McCreery has kindly consented to draw the lucky tickets and Mr. Kuster has shown his customary generosity and will lend the Playhouse, so that those who wish to see if their tickets are drawn can sit in comfort at 3:30 on the afternoon of Halloween.

The tickets are only $1.00 each, as the Bundles want everyone to be able to have a chance, or several chances, to win the splendid prizes, of which there will be over a hundred.

The grocers are contributing baskets of groceries and fruit, the farmers in Carmel Valley are giving lugs of their delicious fruits and some of the druggists are giving large boxes of chocolates and cosmetics. Use and beauty will both be served by the prizes of lovely clothes to be given by Carmel and Monterey's many dress shops.

Mrs. Henry Van Dyke will paint the portrait of any one that the lucky winner of her blank canvas wishes. Mr. Alec Miller, the distinguished Scots sculptor, now living in Carmel, will carve a portrait in low relief of any one who draws his number.

Mrs. Stilwell has given two Pekingese dogs in carved and gilded wood, treasures from a Chinese temple, which can be used for fascinating book ends.

Mr. Adriani has generously deposited his remarkable collection of an original lithograph by Puvis de Chavanne, the head of a beautiful young girl, dated 1869. Miss Micacia Martinez has donated a painting of St. Thomas More.

Miss Margaret Lial is giving the records of an entire symphony from her Music Store.

Merle's Treasure Chest will give a Surprise Prize, to be opened only after the drawing.

The committee in charge of the Tombola comprises Mrs. Saxton Pope (Chairman of Bundles for America), Mrs. H. S. Nye, (Chairman of Bundles for Britain), Mrs. Joseph W. Stilwell, Mrs. R. R. Wallace, Miss Stewart, Mrs. William E. Pulliam, Mrs. Charles Rayne, Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams and Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts, (Chairman of the Tombola Committee).

Most of the non-perishable prizes will be shown at Bundles Thrift Shop on and after Monday, Oct. 17.

Army-Navy College Qualifying Tests

The Army-Navy College qualifying Test will be administered at 9:00 A. M. on Tuesday, November 9th, in the music room of the Carmel High School. The examination will begin promptly at nine o'clock. Candidates should arrive at the examination room between 8:45 and 8:55 a. m.

If it's ten years subtracted from your age, by a dress with youthful lines, that's discretion. We specialize in larger sizes with younger lines. Dressed-down classic styled dresses or dressed-up sequin trimmed—fringe trimmed—or satin trimmed sophisticates. Sizes 38 to 44. Half sizes 14½ to 22½.

Bob De Yoe Sightsees in Palestine

Bob De Yoe, Pvt. Robert De Yoe of the Army Signal Corps, on leave in Palestine, writes home to his mother in Carmel:

August 29, 1943

Dear Mother:

Several days ago I returned from a very interesting trip to Palestine in which I saw just about everything. Went up and came back by slow train, one of those stop and then start up, go at a moderate speed for a short time and then stop again affairs. It was an over night jaunt and oh, how dirty one feels at the end of the trip. We had second class accommodations which were bad, and third class coming back which were worse. In second class you get a compartment with room for eight and that's all. In third class you get wooden seats or slats which make it most uncomfortable on the anatomy. Going up I had the pleasure of resting in the baggage rack for about six hours, and coming back the floor was good enough for me and others, too.

Palestine is the place where every American soldier in the middle east goes on his furlough, and he stays at Tel-Aviv under the care of the Red Cross Club. Tel-Aviv is the largest city in Palestine and is comparatively new. It is a very clean city which makes this place seem all the worse. The population is mostly Jewish and quite a large number of them are refugees from Germany and occupied countries.

The morning we arrived in Tel-Aviv I lost my pocket book. Got it back days later and nothing was missing in it.

The Red Cross offers one, two and three day tours of Syria. The latter was started the week we were there. The three days tour is taken by most everyone. Believe me, in three days you see a lot more than you can remember.

This is what we saw the first day. Arrived in Jerusalem about 10 with a very interesting ride from Tel-Aviv behind us. Saw the old walled city of Jerusalem and in it are some truly amazing sights of ancient historical background. There is the church of St. Anne, built over the site of the paternal house of the Virgin Mary. Nearby is the Pool of Bethesda where Christ healed the paralytic. From here we proceeded to the Temple Area, the center of which is the Mosque of Omar which is built over a huge rock known as Mount Moriah. Nearby is the Wailing Wall. A short walk brought us out on the Via Dolorosa where Christ carried the cross to Calvary. We followed our guide who led us through narrow streets with high walls through an ancient market with all sorts of things on display as they had been for centuries. We ended up at the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. An earthquake several years ago did damage to the walls which are now supported by steel beams and scaffolding, both inside and out. Entering, the first thing we saw was the stone of Unction tradition says covers the rock on which the body of Christ was embalmed. The inside is dark and cold. We saw plenty inside and had a priest pray for us. That concluded the morning for us. Lunch was at the Jewish Service Club.

In the afternoon our first stop was the Church of all Nations built in 1923 next to the Garden of Gethsemane. In this garden are eight olive trees and their age is between fifteen and seventeen centuries. From here we took off across country going up and down and around with the landscape the rockiest I have ever seen. Passed the sea level sign but still kept going down. Off in the distance the Dead Sea could be seen. Stopped at Jericho and stood on the ruins of the Ancient Walls. Jericho is just a very small green spot in a land that is almost completely barren. It is the only green spot and this is due to one small spring.

POETRY

OWNERSHIP

*No land is held by title deed alone
Though bills of sale may give a legal right:
The land belongs to him who loves each stone,
Who haunts its yucca corridors at night.
He hears the voice of crumbling rock and stream
And learns the passion of the hilltop gales;
He roams the slope where phlox and laurel gleam,
And like the deer, he seeks the aldered swales.
Though he may lack the pittance for his rent,
The wind-blown trees, the hills and sky are his,
With distant star-clouds shining to augment
The most encompassing estate there is.
The man who finds the nature-ways of God
Owns every vista where his feet have trod.*

SGT. MARCUS Z. LYTLE.

WISH

*I would have sea-song in my ears,
The lisp of waves,
The eerie shriek of herring-gulls
Above the lonely caves.*

*I would have green-sea in my eyes,
And jib-like cloudlets flying,
And queenly ships descending west
Towards where the gold is dying.*

*I would be near the things I love;
Whose heart holds not this plea?
I trade my share of fertile earth
For a stretch of barren sea.*

WALDEN GARRATT

ANDERSON CREEK

*At last I become integrated, the walls of my fibers partake of the walls of the canyon, the flow of my arteries absorbs from the valley stream the particles of scale and bar and sand and bark, and the eager mouths of pores hunger for more iodine.
This is the percolation of my soul,
bubbling up through the conscious filter;
merging in the stream and the pond and the grass floor of the ravine.*

*Now to the silver surface floats a curious film;
all the worn felt nap of my civilized mind,
all the shreds of old velvet, the threads of faded turbans, the cottony lint of my swaddling clothes.*

*Below I can see the clear and rapid stream.
And the great cool fish forms flipping ludicrous tails
Where I may swim if I can shed these old shoes.*

REVIEWS

The next stop was the River Jordan which was small and muddy. We walked across the bridge into Trans Jordan and back again. From here we drove over to Kallea on the Dead Sea. This is the lowest spot in the world, some 1400 feet below sea level. We went swimming here and what a sensation! The water tastes bitter and is hard on the eyes, and you float with the greatest of ease. The water was almost hot. That was all for the day. The return trip to Jerusalem took about an hour.

The next morning we first visited Mt. Scopus where you get a beautiful view of the old walled city of Jerusalem. Next was the Garden Tomb which is believed by many to be the actual burial spot of Jesus. We left Jerusalem for Bethlehem, stopped enroute to take a look at the Tomb of Rachel and the Shepherd's Fold. In Bethlehem, we took in the Church of the Nativity which is the oldest Christian church in the world. It is built over the spot where Christ was born. We saw also the Chapel of the Innocents and the Grotto of St. Jerome.

That afternoon we drove to Haifa, arriving there about 5:30. Haifa, a seaport town, is spread out along the very steep side of Mt. Carmel. Our hotel was called the Savoy and was very nice except for the GI cots. The next morning we drove up the mountain and on the top is a convent known as Deir Mar Elias. It had been destroyed many times and last time it was rebuilt they made it like a fortress with walls four feet thick. The windows are higher than a man's head. From the top we had a beautiful view of the city and harbor below us. The road back is steep with horse shoe turns all the way down.

Our next stop was Nazareth. The Church we saw was the Church of the Annunciation. We went down under in some of the caves where Joseph and Mary lived. It was nice and cool down there.

The Sea of Galilee which is also way below sea level, about 700 feet, and the small, ancient town of Tiberias, was our final stop of the morning. Quite a few went in swimming and they said the water was fine. There were a number of children in, too, and they didn't care whether they had on a bathing suit or not. Tiberias was founded in 21 AD. I am not sure, but I believe our guide said that there are a certain tribe of people who live in the mountains above Tiberias and that as far as anyone knows, they don't have any religion. These people are also noted for their ability to shoot straight.

We had lunch at a small hotel called the Atara. After lunch we were on our way again travelling along the shore line of Galilee. We crossed the Jordan again, this time as it left Galilee. For a few minutes we were in Trans-Jordan and then back to Palestine.

Late in the afternoon on the way back to Tel-Aviv we stopped at a Jewish collective settlement where everyone works together, lives together and what they earn goes into a common fund. The settlement was started in 1921 by Jewish refugees from Russia, Poland and a few other places. There were about 120 members and all were in the twenties or late teens. Now the plan had about 800 members and they make or grow just about everything. We were shown around the place by the secretary. We saw the mess hall, one for the children and one for the adults. They have their own school with four years of high school. There is also a nursery where the mothers deposit the offspring in the morning and withdraw them at night. Purpose is to allow the mother to work without being bothered. The last thing we inspected was the dairy and here we had our biggest treat—real cow's milk, and you should have seen us go for it. Last time I had any milk was in November at Durban. One sergeant had four G. I. cups

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

SPORTS

The time: 5:00 p.m., Thursday, the place: playground No. 1. Sunset school, characters: sixteen tired boys who are trudging off the field. Yes, the Morons and Zekes had just "fought" it out for the league lead. The results: Zekes-12, Morons-6. Meanwhile the Avengers bowed to the Penny-grabbers, 6-0. On Tuesday, in Intra-mural, the Morons precluded the big game by downing the Pennygrabbers, 10-0. The Zekes rightly trounced the Avengers, 20-6.

The week's results in football for physical education were: Monday, Dodgers-6, Bardoes-0; Yanks 0, Skunks-0. Tuesday, Dodgers-6, Yanks-0; Skunks-24, Bardoes-0. Wednesday, Yanks-2, Bardoes-0; Dodgers-0, Skunks-0. Thursday, Dan Holmes' All-Stars-6, Tom Handley's All-Stars-6.

OUR NEW GIRL

Sadie Mae Williams has come to our room. Her father is a Lt. Col. in the Army. Sadie Mae was born in Hawaii but has moved about a great deal for her father has always been in the army. Her favorite subjects are arithmetic and spelling, and she likes kick ball best of all games.

—Ann Pendlebury, Grade 6

MY DOG

I have a little Pekinese dog. Up at the Circle M ranch he got stung by a bee. My mother got stung in her hair too.

—Gay Masten, Grade 3

MY CAT

I have a cat. He looks like a picture on a Chesapeake and Ohio calendar, so we named Chesapeake.

Morrrough O'Brien, Grade3

My Dog

I have a smooth haired fox terrier. Her mother was born in Australia and she was born in Hawaii. Her name is Wiki-Wiki, which means quick in Hawaiian. Yesterday we dressed Wiki-Wiki in a pair of my shorts, an old army cap and a red bandana. She looked very comical. The funniest thing was when she saw a fly and tried to run after it. She tripped over the shorts and fell down.

—Jack Keliker, Grade 6.

My New Violin

Friday my dad brought home a violin. It was new to me but old in age. It was musty smelling for it had been closed up for years. We believe it is almost one hundred years old. I polished it with a chamois until the cloth was almost worn out. I've been practicing on it every day. It has a better tone than the one I had for it is a good used violin.—Edward Goodrick, Grade 6.

Sunday Fun

On Sunday we went to the Country Club. Daddy played golf and we went with him. We went to the beach and got shells. My brother and I walked way down by the water. We rolled a rock over and a crab was under it. Brother had his hand almost on it when I stopped him and told him it would pinch him.—Shirley Slipner, Grade 6.

Snowball

One Friday night when I was reading the paper and listening to the radio, I heard a little "mew, mew." When I opened the front door, I saw a kitten. I opened wide the door and in walked the little white cat. Mother told me to put it out. But the next morning he was there again. I went to every house around our house, but he didn't belong to anyone. He stayed around our house and played with my other kittens. A few days later my sister thought Snowball would be a good name because he is so white; so that's why we named him Snowball. — Donna Douglas, Grade 4.

OUR TRIP TO THE FIREHOUSE

Last week during school-time we went to the firehouse. They showed us how dangerous gasoline is. One bottle of it will make as much explosion as fifteen sticks of dynamite and if you are cleaning where there is a lighted pilot it will probably catch fire even if the light is far away. They showed us how to slide down the fireman's pole too.—Eric Short, Grade 6

Egyptian Books

Egyptian books were made of papyrus. Papyrus grows along the Nile river. The papyrus is cut in wide strips and pasted together. Then the story or poem is written on the papyrus. Then it is rolled up on two sticks and it is ready to read. Some of these books are a hundred feet long.—Stephen W., Grade 6.

The other night I went to the movies with my mother and a friend of hers. We went to see the "Jungle Book" and by the time we got out it was very dark. The movie had a lot of things about wild animals in it. My mother said she didn't think they had enough about wolves in the picture. Just then a big police dog walked by and the first thing all of us thought of was wolves.—Doanda Wheeler, Grade 7.

My Ancestors

When my great, great grandfather was a little boy, he and his father and some other men packed up the covered wagons, put their families in them and started for Oklahoma. First they went to what is now Oklahoma City. There were some people already there and they didn't like it, anyway. So they went to what is now Lawton. My great, great grandfather was the first white man to put foot on that land. His name is very well known there now. — Rachel Dunnington, Grade 5.

Evening

I like to look at the planets and stars—Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars. Sometimes they shine very happily, too. But I wouldn't care to be one. Would you? — Peter Lyon, Grade 6.

At the Beach

One day I went to the beach with my brother. We saw a man fall off a landing barge. The landing barge stopped to pick him up. Then it was stuck. — Billy Chalkley, Grade 3.

full. Still wishing I had more of the same. Arrived back in Tel-Aviv about 7 P. M.

All in all it was a most interesting trip and sure wish I could take it over. I took about 80 pictures and will send you some of the best when possible.

In Tel-Aviv we did some window shopping and a little swimming at a military beach called Bat Yam.

Last Sunday my bunch moved into a billet. It is a swell place and a lot cooler than the barracks. The only trouble is that we still have to eat where we were and most of the time the food is pretty poor. Another little thing that bothers us is the ants and they are all over the place. However, we are getting used to their company.

About two weeks ago we saw Jack Benny in person along with Anna Lee, Winnie Shaw and Larry Adler. The day after I saw him at the Red Cross and snapped his picture.

The movies being shown around here are the same ones that were shown several months ago. Most of them are several years old. Gone With the Wind is at the Metro. Saw Sun Valley Serenade last night and was it cut up!

I will send some more pictures of the place Mr. W. asked about. The street on which the hotel is is about the worst in town for the number of guides or dragomen on it. They all say, "Do you want to go, Yankee?" and then name all the familiar sights. They are just as numerous at the Red Cross and the end of the tram line. The shoe shine boys are thick as flies, and beggars and peddlers seem to be everywhere.

I received "See Here Private Hargrove" last March and haven't received the lifetime fountain pen yet.

There are about ten pages of this letter, and am I proud of myself.

Love,

Bob.

Carmel Visitor Describes Life of Religious Objectors

Conscientious objectors or religious objectors as the government prefers to call them, are in the main obscure and drab little people, and unless a name like Lew Ayers figures in their news, they drop out of sight like a gopher in a hole and are forgotten, according to Professor Paul Schillp, head of the department of philosophy of Northwestern University, recently a house guest of Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Stuart. On behalf of the Quakers and other religious groups, Prof. Schillp made a tour of the religious objectors camps in California and the northwest.

These groups are established in many of the old C.C.C. camps. There are from 100 to 200 men in each camp, under military discipline and they must work 8 hours a day at something profitable to the government, such as tree planting, fire prevention and grow as much of their food as possible. They must pay $30 a month for their keep and if unable to do so the religious sect to which they belong must provide the funds.

Dr. Schillp said that every case is investigated by the F.B.I. so that no draft evaders are allowed to slip in. He feels that as part of the war picture it is gratifying that these men are receiving more humane treatment than similar groups who were thrown into prison during the last war.

There are men from fundamentalists to philosophical anarchists, illiterates and college men, living together with only one thing in common—refusal to fight.

Dr. Schillp spoke to the men in the eight camps he visited and told them that there was no justification for their stand unless when they come out they are prepared to aid in the work of removing the causes of war.—S.N.F.

Eva L. Musser

Mrs. Eva J. L. Musser, mother of Mrs. Margaret Dienelt of Carmel, died in the Hillcrest Sanitarium in San Francisco, on Friday, October 8, at the age of 78, following a brief illness.

A native of Philadelphia, Mrs. Musser lived during the greater part of her life in Oakland, both as daughter of the late Edward Grafton Lukens, prominent pioneer business man, and as wife of the late Dr. Francis R. Musser, foremost ear and throat specialist of that city, who came there to practice after eighteen years of study in Vienna. She was the sister of the late Senator Russell Lukens.

Mrs. Musser came to make her home in Carmel with her daughter in 1941 and has left the imprint of her unique and winning personality upon a host of Carmel friends.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by two sons: William Alder Musser, now in U. S. Air Corps officers' training school at Miami, Florida and Edward Grafton Musser, engaged in defense work in San Francisco.

The only War Bond you'll ever regret is the one you didn't buy!

Dr. Miller Speaker At Auxiliary Meet

By R. ELLIS ROBERTS

At the Women's Auxiliary on the 6th of October there was an innovation. As usual, the tables were beautifully decorated with flowers by Mrs. Hulsewé and her helpers; the Rector was, as always, a genial chairman, and led the company in singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Alice Keith, the organist, to whom he gave a present. The innovation was a table for men only whom Mrs. Fitz Howard Jarvis, the President, referred to as "the Knights of the Round Table." The flattered guests tried their best to look as if they were still tournament-worthy.

The speaker was the Reverend Dr. Randolph C. Miller of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific and the Pacific School of Religion. His subject was Dilemmas of Christian Living. Dr. Miller has an easy and confident delivery; and he treated his chosen topic in very simple terms. He emphasized the fact that many of our choices were choices not between good and bad, black and white, but between different shades of grey. While he stressed the influence of heredity and environment on character, Dr. Miller emphasized the truth of man's final dependence on God. He then illustrated the different aspects of his problem by examples from the work of politicians, social workers, clergymen, doctors, nurses and business men; and pointed out how the problem of war was the extreme instance of the need to choose between two evils. And he ended with an insistence on Christian love as the final arbiter of all conduct.

Remember Me?

I'M THE GUY who looked at you from a USO poster a little over a year ago.

I'm the guy you forked over $34,000,000 for —so that, through the USO, you could let me and all my buddies know that someone home still thought about us—still cared enough not to want us to miss out on any of the things we were in uniform fighting for.

A hot cup of coffee for example, when you come in all grimy and tuckered out from a little "business" trip...

A club house with easy chairs to melt into and desks to sit at and write home and a dance floor and some decent girls to give us out here a little reminder of what it's still like back there.

You remember, don't you?

You probably dug deep for a lot of other things that year, too...for British War Relief, United China Relief, and so on. Well, this year it's going to be simpler for you. Because this year, seventeen war relief agencies have banded together into one great big campaign—the National War Fund. This time you are only asked to give once for all seventeen.

And take it from me, as one who ought to know, that contribution you're going to make is one of the greatest things you can do to bring about victory. Not just because part of it's going to USO to do wonders for the morale of the fellows under arms, but because a good deal of it is going to help relieve distress at home through local agencies—as well as abroad, to help keep our allies in the fight.

So when you're asked to give to the united campaign of the National War Fund and our community's own war fund this month, remember me. Every dollar you give helps me out in countless ways, and does its bit to bring me home sooner.

Give in a big way, will ya?

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

FOOTBALL NEWS

The high pitched note of a whistle. A football sailing high into the air. The cheer from the crowd.

This will be the opening to the big game this weekend on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at Pacific Grove, when the Carmel Padres meet up with the Pacific Grove Breakers.

This is bound to be a most exciting and enthusiastic game, as it will be the first one of the season. There are even bets being put on the game between the students from the two schools.

The Carmel Padres have been practicing since school opened and appear to be quite a sturdy bunch. They have already had two practice games among themselves including two days of practice on the Carmel beach in which Coach Rudd gave the boys a very stiff workout followed by a swim in the ocean.

The P. G. Breakers have been practicing quite intensively themselves. They have practically the same turnout as Carmel in the number of boys. They have a very good backfield and their line is nothing to overlook.

The Padres are believed to have the heaviest team since Carmel High was opened three years ago. The team will average at least 180 pounds and their backfield around 160 pounds.

So far there is no definite information as to who will be in the starting lineup. Coach Rudd of the Carmel team says, "The boys who show the most interest and turn out steadily for practice, will be first in the choice of lineup."

The Padres will use a T-formation with which most of the boys are familiar. The Breakers will use a single wing.

THE CADET CORP

Three weeks ago Mr. J. W. Getsinger went to Berkeley to receive his training as commandant for one of the many high schools participating in the California Cadet Corp. specifically, Carmel High school.

Military activities began here last week, but the corps is not yet completely organized. It seems that nearly every male student enrolled. Mr. Getsinger has divided the full company into two platoons. Platoon 1, which is drilled in the morning, and platoon 2, which meets in the afternoon.

Already the volunteer cadets are learning the "Manual of Arms," although the larger percentage of them have had no military training. Two of the boys who have had training, have become sergeants. Bob Hendricks and Angelo Lucido, and others will soon get their ranks.

Today, and in the future, military training will be an important factor in the post-war plans, and this course will be a great help when that time comes.

LOST

LOST: Carmel High's secretary, Mrs. W. R. Davis, has been lost. Last seen with a company of explorers heading towards Devil's Canon. The time was 4:00 a.m. on Sunday, October 3, 1943. Anyone seeing Mrs. Davis please contact Carmel High school.

FOUND: Mrs. Davis was found at her office on Monday, October 4. When asked what made her so late to school, she calmly stated that she had gone on a hike.

Well, here is the inside information. Apparently Mrs. Davis and her fellow explorers had risen at the early hour of 3:30, on Sunday, October 3, and started on a hike to Devil's Canon.

The little band of explorers started on their walk, and went on and on, entranced at the beauty of the canon, and not thinking of turning back.

They walked that night until 10:30, when they couldn't see their way anymore, so they lit a fire and proceeded to hit the hay.

The next morning, after a cold breakfast of the day before lunch, they continued on their way, and finally got back to school. So now you know why Mrs. Davis was late on Monday.

BROADCAST

The drama class presented its first play of the year over the broadcasting system at Carmel High school on Monday, October 11, and Tuesday, October 12. The play was "Smith and Wife." A story of simple every day people, it was presented sympathetically and beautifully by the members of the drama class.

The cast on Monday was: J. Smith, J. Jensen; Mary Smith, Bonnie Fish; The Gate Keeper, M. Osgood; the Voice, Mary Gregory.

Tuesday's cast was: J. Smith played by Oliver Bassett; Mary Smith, Patty Post; the Gate Keeper, Bob Jensen; the Voice, Ann Bates.

Both casts did an exceptionally good job in presenting the play and it was enjoyed by the many students who heard it.

BLOCK "C" ACTIVITIES

Those rugged All-American Block "C" boys had their first meeting Tuesday, September 28th at which they elected officers for the year. The boys elected were Baird Bardarson, president; Howard Lockwood, vice-president; George Moller, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Rudd, the coach, presented a constitution before the Block "C" Club. In it are numerous things the boys should and will do during the year. One of them is sponsoring and refereeing intramural sports such as football and basketball. The big event of the year socially, as far as the Block "C" boys are concerned is the Block "C" dance which they will sponsor. The following boys are the members:

Baird Bardarson, Jim Boylan, Russell Bohlke, Jack Fremont, Jim Greenan, Bob Holm, Sandy Hook, Louie Levinson, Howie Lockwood, George Moller, Bill Monroe, Roy Parsons, Art Templeman, Milt Thompson, Dick Uzell, John Weigold, Del Wermuth.

Del Wilson, and Mgr. Bud Yerkes, and Asst. Mgr. Bill Sapsiss.

CLEAN UP

Mr. Rico finally had time to clean up the litter between the lawns and the buildings. Although he is rushed, he was nice enough to add this to his many other duties. After Christmas he thinks the lawn between the upper corridor will be ready for the students to enjoy. The campus is looking lovely now, thanks to Mr. Rico.

Louise Finley

Mrs. Louise Dawees Finley, mother of Lieutenant Colonel James R. Finley, retired, of Carmel, died at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., on Thursday, October 7, at the age of 76.

Mrs. Finley was the widow of Colonel Walter Lowrie Finley who, prior to his death in 1914, was for several years in command of the Presidio of Monterey, during which time Col. and Mrs. Finley made their home in Carmel, where they are both warmly remembered by many friends.

The daughter of Maj. Thomas B. Dawees, a veteran of the Civil and Indian Wars, Mrs. Finley was born on April 20, 1867, at Fort Laramie, Wyoming, and spent much of her girlhood and early married life at various army posts. She accompanied Col. Finley on two tours of the Philippines.

Following the death of her husband, she purchased a home in Washington, D. C., where she has been continuously active in the work of the Red Cross and a member of the Gray Ladies. For several years she was president of the Washington branch of the Army goes service to our MILLIONTH

Electric Customer

When Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Gill came to San Francisco by way of Utah, New Mexico and Arizona and established a home at 1420 Kirkland Avenue, they became our Millionth Electric Customer. We were happy to be ready and able to serve these newcomers with dependable and economical electricity. But the most pleasing of all was when Mrs. Gill was asked—"Have you received your first month's P. G. and E. electric bill?" And her answer was "Why, yes I have it right here. It is exactly $3.46. The last place where we lived our bill was always considerably more than that amount, and I am using my same electric range, washing machine and other appliances. I know we are going to like San Francisco."

On the Home Service Front during a five year period of defense preparation and later the all-out production for war, more than 150,000 new electric customers have been connected in service.

On the War Service Front the amount of electric power needed to supply military establishments and war industries alone is equal to TWICE the normal daily requirements of the City and County of San Francisco. And during the past five year defense and war period more than 3500 miles of new power and transmission lines have been erected.

Kilowatt hours to help speed the man-hour production of military supplies is our main job these days. The men in the powerhouses, the men that maintain and build the power lines, the engineers and clerical help—some 12,000 employees of this company—are determined that an adequate power supply shall be maintained. This will be done, even though more than 2300 employees of this company now serve in the armed forces. California and the Nation can depend on that.

The Sam Colemans Arrive

Mr. Samuel Coleman assumed his new duties as assistant to Mr. J. E. Abernethy in the Carmel branch of the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank on Wednesday, and Mrs. Coleman will arrive shortly from King City to establish their new home, the Du Arte house on Lincoln near 11th.

Mr. Coleman has been engaged in the banking business in King City for the past twenty-five years and for the greater part of that time has also served as city treasurer. He has taken a prominent part in American Legion affairs and those of the Masonic Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman are the parents of two daughters. Mrs. William Tumbleson and Miss Gladys Coleman, and now that Carmel is their home, they can see plenty of their two Tumbleson grandsons, one practically brand-new, since Mr. Tumbleson is employed in the Monterey Post office and the family lives in Pacific Grove. Miss Gladys Coleman, a recent graduate of the San Jose State college, is at present engaged in defense work in that city.

Louis Holtzhauer on Leave

Gunner's Mate Louis Holtzhauer, U. S. Navy, is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holtzhauer of Dolores and 5th streets. Mrs. Holtzhauer made a trip to San Francisco last week to meet this young veteran of Aleutian activities and bring him back for a visit pending his new assignment. The Holtzhauers are a three-star family, and this week were made especially happy by the news that Pfc. Arthur, now serving with the Army engineers had somewhere in the South Pacific area contacted his brother, Rudy, a corporal in the infantry—the first meeting between the brothers in two years. Arthur's letter describes Rudy as in the best of health and spirits.

Theatrical Return

This week Mr. George Gregg brought his wife to see for the first time the little village of Carmel-by-the-Sea about which he had talked so often. It is his own first visit since 1915, the year in which he took part at the Forest Theatre in Midsummer Night's Dream, under the direction of Herbert Heron, following his appearance in George Sterling's Second Poet there. Since those days, he has journeyed far, first to England, where he served throughout World War I with the Royal Air Force. More recently he has lived in Arizona and in New Mexico. Nothing daunted by the changes which he saw on every hand, he is looking forward to a permanent return to Carmel.

Returns from S. F.

Mrs. Willis G. White returned on Monday from San Francisco and the Bay region after a few days' visit with her brother, Col. F. C. Kelser, and her son-in-law, Dr. F. C. Herrick, a member of the faculty at Mills College, her daughter, Mrs. Herrick, and the three grandchildren, Mariam Elizabeth, Charles Putman and Peggy Jo, all of whom make their home in Oakland.

Barbara Pulitzer Weds

In a simple ceremony performed by the Rev. Theodore Bell last Monday afternoon at 5:30, October 11th, Miss Barbara Pulitzer of Carmel was united in marriage to Captain Robert Leaming Wood, of the Amphibian Engineers, U. S. A., at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte.

The beautiful chapel with its stained glass windows was a perfect setting for the bride, one of the loveliest of the season, who was dressed in an exquisite dove-grey ensemble set off by amethyst clip and ear-rings and on her blonde hair a gathering of grey veiling around a purple orchid, as she came down the aisle on the arm of Captain John Whitney, of Philadelphia, who gave her in marriage. She carried a bouquet of orchids and bouvardia.

Miss Muriel Pulitzer, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and wore an afternoon dress of blue velvet, while the bride's mother, Mrs. Walter Pulitzer, was dressed in a gown of chestnut silk embroidered with rhinestones in Princess feather design. Lt. Charles Wagner of Baltimore was best man.

Intimate friends and relatives attended, but the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wood of Chestnut Hill, Pa., were unable to be present due to war-time conditions in traveling. They plan, however, to visit the wedded pair later on.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party drove to Carmel where a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Elmer Cox on Scenic Drive. While Captain and the new Mrs. Wood cut the wedding cake amidst the felicitations of their friends, champagne flowed freely and Edith Cox passed the intriguing hors d'oeuvres.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Kilduff of Philadelphia, Miss Joan Hornby, Miss Eve Diekemper, Miss Betty La Salle, Lt. and Mrs. Boniface Maile, Lt. and Mrs. Wheat, Major McCaffrey, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brattney, Mrs. Jay Thomas, Lt. Basetti, Captain Dobson Kilduff, Marjorie Warren, Lt. Parker, Lt. Simpson, Lt. Robertson, Lt. Pitt, Lt. T. T. Meehan, Colonel Russell, Rosalind Sharpe, and Elizabeth Paine.

Captain Wood is stationed at Fort Ord and after a brief honeymoon the couple will be at home in the Marie Elzalde house in the Carmel Woods.—R. S.

Mrs. James E. Conley left on Friday for Bowling Green, Missouri, home of the Conley family before coming to Carmel a year and a half ago. The object of her trip is to dispose of property there so that she and Mr. Conley, now associated with Mr. Clarence W. Wentworth in the Village Shoe Shop, may establish a permanent home in Carmel.

Gala Spanish Evening

The cafeteria of Carmel high school was the scene on Sunday evening of an original and festive dinner party, attended by faculty members of Sunset and Carmel high school, members of the school board of trustees, wives, husbands, and a sprinkling of visiting friends, numbering in all around fifty.

The novel arrangements—tables gaily decorated in Spanish colors, a red geranium for each arrival, seating determined by fitting one's particular section of a puzzle into place with five others, were all in charge of an energetic committee composed of Miss Hazel Sener, Miss Gale Marhoske, Miss Jean Staffebach and Mr. Ernest Calley. Master of ceremonies, distributing the floral decorations and puzzle pieces, ready with witty quips, was school trustee Peter Ferrante.

After enjoying the dinner of enchiladas and rice, fresh green salad, French bread, ice cream and cake, the entire party adjourned to Monterey's First Theatre and were hugely entertained by an excellent performance of Jennie the Jewel of the West.

To Honor Bride and Groom

Sutton Place, the Lincoln street home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Sutton, was the scene of a large gathering on Sunday afternoon of old friends of the family and those of First Lieutenant Boniface Maile and his bride of four months, the former Miss Betty Rae Sutton, whose marriage took place at the First Methodist Church of Los Angeles on July 6.

A very beautiful wedding cake, flanked by candles and a bowl of flowers, was cut and the happiness of the young couple was toasted in punch.

The new Mrs. Maile, vivacious and attractive only child of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton, was born in Seattle, but has made her home in Carmel with her parents since the age of four, graduating from Sunset school and Monterey high. Extremely talented in the field of dancing, she studied for many years under Mrs. Byington Ford (Ruth Austin) and at Mills College with Doris Humphrey and Charles Wiedeman, and has received enthusiastic plaudits on every occasion when she has appeared on the local stage.

Lieutenant Maile is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Maile of Detroit and the brother of Miss Viola Maile, now attending school in that city. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the Detroit Law school, and practiced law in Detroit for several years before entering the service. He is now stationed at Fort Ord with the amphibian engineers.

The wedding ceremony, which took place during Betty Rae's visit with her aun Mrs. Elizabeth Hoff and her cousin, Miss Josephine Somers in Whittier, California, was the culmination of a romance which began in Carmel at the first of the year.

Room Mother and talk over with the teachers the general outline of class work as well as the plan of the new report cards. Later the group assembled in the school library for tea. Much credit for the success of the afternoon is due to Mrs. Robert Stanton president of the Carmel P.T.A. and her board of directors and to Mrs. Cedric Rowntree, hospitality chairman. Supervisor Speaks Of Post-War Plans At Lions Meeting

Supervisor Andrew Jacobsen as guest speaker at the Lions Club dinner meeting Tuesday night at Pine Inn outlined Monterey county's post-war plans and described the effect of war conditions on the county departments.

Increase in population in this area has necessitated the doubling of the sheriff's force. Increased costs of living has made it necessary to increase the county employees' salary 15 per cent. The county hospital has felt the effect of war conditions in two ways, a nurse shortage but also a decrease in the number of patients, to the extent of a daily average of 40 less than normal. The latter situation he attributes to higher wages and absorption of men into the armed forces.

The county has purchased $200,000 in bonds to be used in defraying expenses of post-war construction. Of interest to Carmel are the plans for improving the Carmel Valley road and the approach to Carmel via Junipero street.

Surgical Technician Exhibits Designs

lace, brocade and velvet are an exquisite simplified realism. Minutia plays its dainty, repetitive part entertainingly. He has the modern's delight in streamlining and in the use of sturdy extremes of color on occasion. His ardent love of color began in primary school, probably before.

Grown up, Steed could no more not have become an artist than he could have stopped breathing. It was therefore not a matter of choosing art as a profession.

After enlisting he was assigned to a medical detachment. Not until he was chosen to be sent for intensive training as a surgical technician to Letterman Hospital in San Francisco did he develop an absorbing preoccupation with surgery and the possibilities of anatomical illustration.

Major George Schivers at Letterman, on discovering Steed's background as an artist and his genius for illustration and design, gave him the chance to illustrate a textbook for training surgical technicians he was writing. So, as a protégé of Major Schivers, Steed first started out on the phase of his artistic career which he intends to follow up after the war, anatomical illustration. As there are only one or two men in the Army with his rating of expert technician and anatomical illustrator, he is waiting for an overseas assignment to do anatomical drawing on the spot in battle zone hospitals.

"All the research that has to be done in anatomical illustration comes easy to me. I've had to do so much of it in costume designing."

Posted at the door of surgery at the Station Hospital, Sgt. Steed has a most vitally important job, overseeing everything to make operative locale function correctly for surgeon, nurse and patient—as to disinfecting, sterilization, scrubbing up. A Carmel surgeon, Col. John L. Gallagher, transferred Steed to this permanent post, taking him out of the field unit he was with originally. Gallagher is still remembered here on the Peninsula because of the extraordinary success he had treating an almost hopeless case of gangrene—with sulphur drugs after surgery.

Major Richard Berg, chief of surgical service and Major A. S. White, assistant chief of surgical service, both of Carmel, are staunch friends of Sgt. Steed.

An artist soldier is really not out of place among stretchers, nurses, ether cones, and glittering surgical instruments. Medicine and art have always overlapped. Many an artist has distinguished himself in medicine. Doctors notoriously paint and sculpt on the side. A few classic cases of the scien-

Grace Shiell

Grace Shiell has left us—gone to a happier zone than this sad mess we're worrying through now. I knew she was well along in her eighties, but I only learned today that she was born in 1853, ninety years young. Bless her stout heart, you'd never have thought it.

One of our fine, lovable Carmel old-timers, a pioneer in that section "up the gully road and beyond stingy corner." If I'm not mistaken, her cottage was the first in those pine woods, and there, with no immediate neighbors, this Scotch lassie lived with her dog (a couple of them as time passed) and the companion of her sundown years was Andrew, the little canary who survives her. Andrew was as human to her as any mortal of our genus could be.

Adios, Friend! The ranks of the old-timers are thinning out year by year. You were part of our old village, yet, since you forced yourself on nobody, I doubt if many of the recent-comers ever heard of you. But we who knew you admired your independence, your loyalty, your self-reliance, and your superlative grit in meeting all contingencies. We'll always remember you. Requiescat in pace.—Jo Mora.

Miss Grace Shiell, resident of "old Carmel" since 1915, passed away peacefully last Tuesday night at her home in Carmel Woods. "Miss Shiell," as she was known to neighbors and friends, came to Carmel with Helen Borden, and built her first house in Carmel Woods. It was a typical Carmel house of that early period.

tific and artistic approach being integral are Audubon, and Leonardo da Vinci, never more in the limelight than today. And Michael Angelo, sweating through night vigils dissecting human structure by the light of a candle propped up in a cadaver borrowed from a neighboring cemetery.

Speaking of artists in the Army, Sgt. Steed said, "I think it's wonderful the way artists still keep at their painting or their music in the Army. I believe that after the war America has a great future in art, more than any other nation. For here we are ready to give culture its rightful place. Other countries are going to have to be working to re-establish themselves economically, but not America. And eventually, the American artist is going to have the place he is entitled to in the civic scheme of things, as he did once in France. There should be subsidies, of course, nothing like the WPA—and national scholarships to help the artist assume his duties along with engineers, economists, architects, etc."

Sergeant Steed's brochure on "The Source of Infection" illustrated by him to be published after the war—communicates the excitement this soldier felt on studying medicine's story of the aseptic and antiseptic approach to surgery. Authentically accurate from a medical standpoint it still makes fascinating reading for the layman, though the author is not talking down to the man in the street. He begins with Lister—whose portrait has relief in Westminster Abbey was modeled from photographs by the wife of the California painter, William Wendt.

Sergeant Steed is a lover of Russian music, and of our pines and prawns.

"There is really no place like this" the southern California illustrator said looking affectionately along our village street down to the sunny sea.

"I'm going to bring my father and mother here. And have a house in Carmel after the war."

of redwood, unpainted, looking out on the sea and Point Lobos.

Born and educated in Edinburgh, Miss Shiell loved her little Carmel home with a love that all old Carmelites will understand. To her it typified something made with more than hands, something that would always mean home. In her khaki riding breeches, always her dog Chow with her, she was a familiar figure on Ocean Avenue in those days, in the post office, walking through the gulch or towards the beach.

Few loved animals more than Miss Shiell, and all animals loved and trusted her. First it was her dog, Chow, and for a while it was Imp and when Imp was gone, there was Andy, the bird. Andy saw her through, her constant companion these last years, with whom she shared books, pictures and fun. Many a joke together did those two have, and when the final curtain was drawn for her last Tuesday night, Andy was in his cage by her bedside, inscrutably standing by.

Children loved Miss Shiell, too. They knew, as did so many neighbors, how she made Scotch shortbread, marmalade and jellies, leaving them on the porch on a Christmas morning.

Miss Shiell chose to live alone. She passed away in her own home, independently, as she had planned, a kind neighbor at the bedside. A gallant, staunch individual, never swerving in her loyalties. The neighborhood and Carmel will miss her. Funeral to be held today at 2:30 p.m. at Dorney's.—Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous.

Alida M. Huffer

Mrs. Alida M. Huffer died at her home on San Antonio and Ninth streets at 10 p.m. on Sunday, October 10, following an illness of about two years.

A native of Rome, New York, she came to Carmel with her husband, Mr. F. A. Huffer, from Seattle, eleven years ago, and made a great number of friends during her life here.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Stryker, of New York, for the past three weeks a guest in the Huffer home.

Plane Watchers On Alert Basis After October 16

At six o'clock the evening of October 16, observation posts, including Yankee Point, Cypress Point, Pacific Grove and Seaside, of the Aircraft Warning Service will operate on an "alert basis"—that is, will cease to maintain a 24-hour schedule as they have since Pearl Harbor, but will be immediately activated in case of an emergency. This information was released on Monday by the Fourth Fighter Command. Among the reasons for this decision is the general military situation in the Pacific.

Observation Posts, however, are not being disbanded or dismantled. Area supervisors, chief observers and their assistants, plus a staff of special volunteer observers for each Post, will be on call for alerts or other emergencies. Post telephones and equipment, it is understood, will be maintained in full working condition.

Plans are underway for a "get-together" for all volunteers shortly after October 16, an occasion at which "veterans of the AWS" may discuss their almost two years of service, and indulge in nostalgic memories of those long night shifts.

Navyators Postpone Kill to Last Stanza

Held to a one point lead for the greater part of the game, the Del Monte Pre-Flight Navyators opened up in the last quarter to swamp the Bluejackets from the Naval Personnel Distribution Center 34 to 6 Sunday at the Polo Field.

Evidence that the Navyators earned their tallies is in the statistics columns which credit the Navyators with 16 first downs as against the visitors' five, 189 net yards from rushing to none for the Bluejackets, 12 of 26 passes completed for 261 yards compared to 11 of 20 for 148. Penalties set back the Navyators 128 yards while the Bluejackets came through with only 20.

College of the Pacific at Stockton is on the Navyators' schedule for next Saturday, October 16.

THE TEST

We face a severe test of our patriotic generosity. Our Peninsula is asked to contribute $36,000 to the National War Chest and $28,400 to the annual Community Chest Fund. Because of wartime conditions one solicitation is to be made.

Since this $64,400 total is more than double any previous quota, your War Chest Advisory Board realized that the goal could not be reached even if donors on the average "gave double" over their last year's Chest gift. Who would step into the breach left in the ranks of those who could not "give double"? Would enough exceptionally generous souls make up the difference by "giving triple" or more?

THE HONOR ROLL

A Chest solicitor will shortly call to explain how by patriotically qualifying for the Honor Roll you will further this cause which helps build the morale of both the war and home fronts. In the War Chest there are 14 great world agencies of relief for millions of people "run over by the war." In the Community Chest are the 8 regular character building agencies of the home front. (No increase in latter's quota.)

PATRIOTIC SOLICITORS

May we remind you that our volunteer solicitors have taken up this wartime task with a spirit of high patriotic devotion. They deserve your sympathetic cooperation.

The officers of the Monterey Peninsula War Chest Advisory Board are Col. Edwin Landon, Carmel, Chairman; Mark Keller, Monterey, President; Roudi Partridge, Pacific Grove, Treasurer; Frank Shea, Carmel, Chairman Executive Committee and Norman Larson, Highlands, Chairman Budget committee.—Adv.

School Board Starts Plans For Construction

The school board took the initiative in post war planning for Carmel Tuesday night when the members decided that all possible preliminary work should be done now so that construction for improvements at the high school and Sunset could begin as soon as men and materials are available after the war.

To be discussed at meetings this fall are plans for new rooms for the high school which are needed to complete the plant and enlargement of Sunset which will be necessary if enrollment increases as the facilities are now stretched to capacity.

This latter fact was brought out by Mrs. Helen Cowan Wood, Sunset principal, in her report that enrollment at the primary school had reached 462 in spite of the fact that the Catholic school, with an enrollment of 90 has absorbed some of Sunset students. The number of children eating in the cafeteria has increased from 140-160 last year to 230-250 this year, taxing the kitchen facilities to such an extent that the board authorized Mrs. Wood to send out notices to mothers requesting that wherever possible they arrange for their children to bring their lunch to school part of the week so that they would be eating at the cafeteria on alternate days. The board authorized the purchase of additional cafeteria trays and equipment, also the expenditure of $50 a month for part time clerical help at the Sunset office.

Superintendent J. W. Getsinger reported that high school attendance was now 282, a 15% increase over last year. He also called the board's attention to an error in the computation of the school, announcing that the corrected date for school ending is June 9.

F. L. McClain, adult school superintendent reported classes well attended so that only two courses have been dropped, mixed chorus and chemistry.

A project of McClain's high school U. S. History class, the New World Journal, a mimeographed four page newspaper modeled after a newspaper of 1775 and containing news items of the period written by his students, elicited the enthusiastic approval of the board which was also pleased with an illustrated petition from the second grade asking for a fire extinguisher for their room. The request was granted.

On Superintendent Getsinger's request, the board raised the ban on student night entertainments at the high school that has been in effect since the dimout was ordered, so that now the high school students no longer need hold their dances at Sunset cafeteria.

CD Office Does "Cry on Aunt Annie's Shoulder" Business

Established to take care of Civilian Defense Business, the C. D. office in the city hall, by an accident of location, has become a jack of all trades.

Situated at the head of the stairs it is the first office citizens entering the city hall see, and Mrs. C. F. Haskell, on duty every day from 10 to 1, except Saturday when Mrs. A. P. Fraser takes over, finds herself in the same position as the attendant at the information bureau in Grand Central Station. In addition, to issuing canning sugar permits to 32 people, filling out 14 B card renewals and handling 10 War Book 3 applications last month in the regular line of duty, Mrs. Haskell and Mrs. Fraser have answered a collection of inquiries that include: "How can I find my lost child?" "Where can I rent a house?" "Where can I find a policeman?" "Are the cans we put on the salvage pile used for beer bottle caps?" "Where can we get a marriage license?" "A sailor is driving around in a red car just like mine and people think I've loaned him mine; what can I do about it?"

And the Haskell-Fraser team carry on, handing out information and advice good naturedly, still managing to get their ration board and C.D. business done up in good order.

FIRE DEPT. HAS COMPANY

Carmel Special Police corps turned out for fire drill Wednesday night for practice with the ambulance, use of the equipment on the "disaster wagon" and operation of the resuscitator with Assistant Fire Chief Fred Mylar in charge.

Bill Askew was in charge of the regular drill put on by the fire department.

P.O. TEMPORARILY AT SEA

For several minutes last week mariners in the vicinity of the post office seeing the American flag flying upside down were in a state of considerable excitement.

Telephone inquiry revealed that the post office was not in need of coast guard assistance in spite of the traditional distress signal flying from its main mast. The custodian had just made a mistake when he ran up the flag.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Jr., left on Wednesday for Englewood, N. J., where they will visit with the Morrow family until the 15th of next month. Mrs. Marie Short accompanied the party as far as San Francisco, returning to Carmel Wednesday evening.

Amateur Gardeners Asked to Relieve Drought at H. S.

The Carmel high school is having difficulty in keeping its trees and shrubs watered, trimmed and cultivated. Mrs. Jane Todd, who has donated a great deal of her time to growing, planting, and supervising the high school grounds has suggested that some volunteer, or volunteers might be found who would be willing to devote some time to this work.

The custodians at the school keep the lawns and buildings, but cannot find time to do much more than that. Some high school boys are employed to work on the grounds, but at the present time the boys have so many other jobs that not enough of them can be found with spare time. The school's budget will not permit the employment of another caretaker, even if one could be found.

Is there anyone who appreciates the glorious view from the high school grounds, and who enjoys working with plants and growing things enough to donate a few hours per week? Mr. Gettins, or Mr. Rico at the high school would be most happy to have some help.

Information Bureau Opens This Week

The Carmel Information Bureau opened again under the sponsorship of the Business Association this week in its former office in the De Yoe building.
